Petitions and Memorials.

TO MY FATHER—BARRY MILLER.

(Dec. 25, 1864—June 20, 1933.)

You taught me, by the being, how to be Honorable and tolerant and kind;
Taught me that the strong and brave
are gentle;
That those who love the most, the
most love find;
Taught me to laugh at our and
other's folly,
And yet to shun the blight of bitter-
ness;
Made me see life as a great adventure,
In which one aims at stars, scorns to
seek less;

But if one lost, so you always taught
me,
Fell short of reaching one's dear
heart's desire,
One must bear failure with the head
held high;
Cling to the dream, fight harder
under fire.
Yours is the mark by which I measure men,
But doubt that I shall see your like again.

—Evelyn Miller Pierce.
